In the heart of imperial Marrakech lies La Sultana, a bewitching new boutique hotel fashioned from an ancient royal residence and the walls of the Tomb of the Saadian Kings. Converted in conjunction with Historical Monuments Commission, La Sultana remains every inch a regal and magnificent palace, whilst incorporating all the modern touches to be expected in a luxury hotel that even in its short history has become a member of Great Hotels of the World.

Despite its location in the Kasbah literally a hundred metres from the Royal Palace, La Sultana is incredibly peaceful. Arranged around four charming riads dotted with fully grown palms and heady with the scent of orange blossom, the hotel is decorated in authentic Moroccan style that marries ornate detail with space and light.

Winners of a British Airways Tourism for Tomorrow Award, Green Globe and a Responsible Tourism Award.

The Kasbah du Toubkal is an extraordinary venture, the product of an imaginative Berber and European partnership. Sharing a belief that the beauty of the Toubkal National Park should be accessible to all who respect it, the Kasbah has been transformed using traditional methods, from a home of a Feudal Caid into an unprecedented haven.

Situated above the village of Imlil and in view of the highest mountain in North Africa the setting is exceptional -Martin Scorsese used it as a set for his film on the Dalai Lama.

".....With the best rooftop views in North Africa... this is the country's first and foremost mountain retreat"
Hotel Review - Condé Nast Traveller

A 14th century building has been turned into an elegant 'home from home' – a glorious mix of chic, comfort, hospitality and art.
